TOPICS OF INTEREST TO EVERY WOMAN

EDITED BY JULIA CHANDLER MARY

MASCULINE IDEA OF WOMAN IS AMUSING

Shows His Own Limitations When He Refers to Hers.
 By FRANCIS SHAPFHER.

So much is written about woman in these days that one might think she had just dawned upon the world, a vision to invite speculation, admiration or condemnation, as it happens.

Of course, it is all because the whirligig of time chances to have reached a point where some would overthrow old conditions and establish new standards, while others are content to believe that "God's in His heaven—all's right with the world."

But occasionally out of the tumultuous discussion a foolish little remark, or a great, big, wise speech sets one a-laughing or just thinking.

It chanced to be a few words, the output of just an ordinary mind, and since it was a masculine mind, there is some possibility of being right, because, in spite of all the erratic things that get into print, there is a perpetual contact of peace between man and woman.

A Bit Amusing.
 But isn't it a bit amusing to hear just a man, commonplace man, who never can grow any bigger or greater, feelingly remark that somehow he cannot think of woman as ever accomplishing anything that amounts to much? "No disrespect intended," you know. He just speaks from a full heart, with plenty of room for admiration of his wife, "In her place," and other words, and other women generally—always in their place.

Now, when a big, brainy, purposeful man—and the world is full of them—gives vent to an individual expression of opinion before women who chance to be unable to measure up to his possibilities, they at least do not summon a smile, even though the opinion runs counter to their own. But it has the appearance of undue assurance when a man of small accomplishments and without the capability of climbing refers to woman's limitations.

Some of us are sadly limited, but in the face of a little remark of that nature we call to mind the brilliant figures of history and the bright women of our own times—some of them in the light, others inconspicuous but effective. And then wonder why the plain, ordinary man is willing to so emphasize his own mental limitations.

Offense than we think, perhaps, we invite smiles and unpleasant comparisons by remarks that are not intended to draw forth either, indeed, are meant for something quite different. But very frequently there's "a chief among us taking notes."

Which Wears the Better?
 Apropos of it all, serious articles get in print, bearing well known signatures, discussing "the man's woman"—the passive, pretty doll, or the energetic, clear-sighted, intellectual companion. Regardless of accomplishments in the world or woman's part in it as a unit, the issue is: Which wears the better and appeals the longer as a companion for life?

In a recent novel Mary Wilkins-Freeman thus idealized her heroine from the viewpoint of the man who loves her.
 "You have the best talent in the world; you can love people who are not worthy to tie your shoestrings and you can think you are looking up, when you are in reality looking down. This is what I call the best talent in the whole world, for a woman." In other words, it is all made a matter of the heart with no apparent capacity for viewing what is plainly manifest to the rest of the world.

Want Better Understanding.
 Perhaps the comparison may not be in keeping, but it recalls a woman whose home was settled dreadfully enough in the midst of mountains. Far, far away the view was perfect, but there were days, many of them, when her eyes refused to look to the hills and the opening beauty beyond. She had something closer, warmer and truer, and refused to be satisfied with the view, glorious as it was.

And so it seems with the talent the novelist decries. Mustn't she come a time when brains really want to meet brains and when complete satisfaction fails to abide beyond the confines of full companionship? When communion can go so far and no farther, what then?

Most of us, the world over, find it right satisfying to talk and be understood, to listen and appreciate.

THE NEWEST PICTURE HATS OF FURRY FELT OR VELVET
 The becoming picture hat is never out of style; it is only in details. This year we are back to the soft, furry felts with wavy brims; to velvet, and satin, of course, and even to Old World brocades.

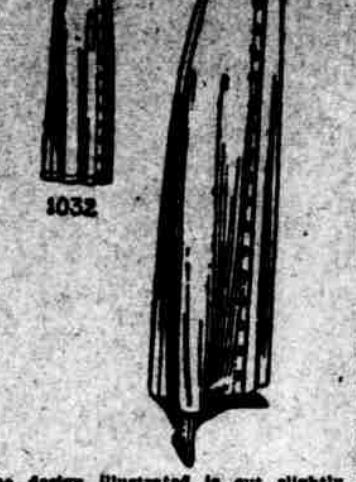

Furniture brocade is used with great effect for some picture hats, which can be trimmed with a feather of the weeping kind or a single sable stain.
 An inch wide facing of contrasting tone is often very becoming and striking, a broad brim having a band of velvet, or a wide band of white, in the same material as the hat itself.

Velvet can be used for this purpose on hats of straw, velvet, satin, silk, or felt. White on black is effective, but shades until all of them are actually in his possession. He wants to avoid any possible hitch in the programme.

A total of $35,000 is being spent on the awards. Among the principal articles will be a $5,000 house and lot in one of Washington's residential sections, four $1,500 touring cars, four $750 baby grand pianos, four $325 player pianos, and four $400 upright pianos. Six of these pianos already have arrived, and it is needless to say that they are beautiful, both in appearance and tone. The Advocate now is devising a unique method of displaying the awards. He will not divulge any of the details of the plan at present, but says that they will be made public within a short time, probably inside of a week.

Herald's Pattern Service.

IN BLACK WOOL CORDEURY FOR $3.50

1032

The design illustrated is cut slightly high waisted, but the clever needlewoman can easily fit the skirt to make the regulation waistline. Many of the new tailored skirts are being finished at the waist with a binding and a belt attached to this, which is a simple enough matter to even the amateur dressmaker.

The new wool corduroys, which look exactly like pigskin, are good looking and very serviceable for the separate skirt. Black is always a good choice, since any sort of a blouse may be worn, and if a black corduroy is chosen, hose buttons would perhaps be the most suitable trimming for the front.

The mixed suitings in dark grays and browns are also extremely serviceable, while if a finer material is desired, nothing is smarter than broadcloth. Dark blue is a good choice, and for this the covered buttons would look best. If the cloth is furnished, any tailor will make a dozen covered buttons for 30 or 35 cents.

The above pattern may be obtained in sizes 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, and will be sent postpaid by the Fashion Department of The Washington Herald on receipt of 25 cents. Be sure to state number and size.

The four-gored skirt is always a well-fitting model since the bias seam in the middle of the back gives more fullness below the hips without apparently adding to the width at the hem.

WAR VETERANS PASS IN REVIEW

Eight Members of Brocton Post March Past Capitol After Fifty Years—At Arlington To-day.

The members of Fletcher Webster Post, No. 12, G. A. R., of Brocton, Mass., who passed in review yesterday at the point where more than fifty years ago they marched before President Lincoln and his official family, will visit Arlington Cemetery to-day. There are eighty-eight of them, and yesterday morning they were reviewed by Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver, Assistant Secretary of War, who, with his staff, stood on the lower steps of the main entrance to the Capitol.

The veterans filed past in the drizzling rain, saluting the reviewing officer. They were led by a file and drum corps. Tomorrow they will visit Philadelphia and then return home.

The old soldiers are en route home from a tour of a number of battlefields. They left Brocton October 2 and went direct to Gettysburg. Two days were spent in going over the battleground. The cost of the tour was subscribed by Brocton citizens. The idea was originated by John E. Laird, a member of City Council, and the plan was taken up with enthusiasm. The sum of $250 was raised in a short time and the details of the trip arranged.

INTEREST SHOWN OVER DISPLAY OF AWARDS

Competitors in the Herald's $25,000 Contest Anxious To See Prizes—Full List to Be Published Probably Within a Week.

Intense interest has been aroused among contestants in The Washington Herald's $25,000 competition over the announcement that the complete list of articles to be given as awards will soon be published.

As was stated yesterday morning, orders have been placed for all of the 350 awards, and they are rapidly arriving. Already a large number of the articles have reached the city from the various factories. The other awards are expected to arrive here this week. The Advocate is withholding the list of articles until all of them are actually in his possession. He wants to avoid any possible hitch in the programme.

A total of $35,000 is being spent on the awards. Wine to Show Awards.
 The Advocate thinks that it is an exceedingly wise plan to display the various awards. In this way contestants can see exactly what will be given the winners of the contest. There is nothing so satisfying as ocular demonstration. Many persons are "from Missouri," so to speak, and have to be shown the prizes before they will believe that they are actually in his possession. He wants to avoid any possible hitch in the programme.

WILSON TO REPLY TO PARKS' CHARGES

Writes Letter Denying Allegations Concerning His Views on Education in Early '90's.

FROUD OF CAMPAIGN BACKERS

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14.—Gov. Wilson tomorrow will make reply to Joseph W. Parks, of Los Angeles, who charges that the governor held some extraordinary views on education in the early '90's. The governor has written a letter to Acting Chairman McAdoo, of the Democratic campaign committee, in which he makes complete denial of all Parks' charges, and adds a personal criticism of Parks' intelligence. The governor dictated the letter to-day. It will be ready for his signature in Trenton to-morrow morning and will be made public at that time.

Gov. Wilson has devoted some time to looking up Mr. Parks and his college record. He has no personal recollection of the Parks of Los Angeles. The governor was doubtful whether or not it was wise to dignify the Parks attack with a reply. At first he said: "If my election can be jeopardized by the unsupported word of an unknown man, I do not deserve to be elected." Later, however, he decided to send the letter to Mr. McAdoo.

A list of the contributors to his pre-convention fund, as testified to by William McCombs before the Clapp investigating committee, was shown to the governor. The names of the largest contributors—Cleveland H. Dodge, Edward Sheldon and Cyrus H. McCormick, the latter president of the harvest trust; and Thomas D. and David B. Jones—were shown to the governor.

"Fine List of Men."
 "It is a pretty fine list in my opinion," he said, "a group of men who backed me all through Princeton in a handsome and most disinterested way." Messrs. Dodge, Sheldon, and McCormick were classmates of the Governor and the Jones brothers were on the board of trustees of the university when Gov. Wilson was president. The Jones brothers were seniors at Princeton when Gov. Wilson was a freshman.

The Governor attended secret practice of the Princeton football team this afternoon, and also had a delightful visit with Mrs. Ricketts, an eighty-four-year-old neighbor, "who knows more things, and knows them straight than anybody else in my list of acquaintances," as the Governor described it to-night.

"She's a wonder," added the candidate. "Mrs. Ricketts has been living away here for some time. She is an old, old friend of mine, and I wanted to bid her welcome back to Princeton." The Governor goes to Trenton to attend State business to-morrow morning. He leaves on Wednesday for a campaign through Delaware, West Virginia, and a stop at Pittsburgh on the return home.

ROOSEVELT PLANS WHIRLWIND FINISH

Will Moose Candidate to Make More Than 100 Speeches in New York in Five Days.

New York, Oct. 14.—Col. Roosevelt is planning to conclude his campaign as the Presidential nominee of the Progressive party with a real "whirlwind campaign." His programme as announced by William H. Hotchkiss, chairman of the State committee of the Bull Moose party, to-day calls for more than 100 speeches in this State during the last five days of the campaign.

According to the present plan, Col. Roosevelt will leave the city for tour of the State immediately after his big meeting in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday evening, October 28. He will spend Wednesday, October 29, at the Hudson River valley, concluding with evening meetings in Albany and Troy, and on Thursday will make many speeches in the Mohawk valley finishing the day with two evening speeches in Syracuse and Rochester.

Col. Roosevelt will devote Friday, November 1, to a score of speeches in the western part of the State, concluding with a speech in Buffalo late at night. On Saturday, October 28, he will burst through Dunkirk, Jamestown, Elmira, and Binghamton and is planning to reach New York in time to make four or five speeches in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn late on Saturday night.

$15,000 Balm for Injured Name.

Howard N. Covey yesterday filed suit for $15,000 damages against Charles C. Mayer, alleging that on September 5 last defendant, in the presence of others, charged plaintiff with embezzling money he had collected for defendant, thereby injuring his good name and reputation.

Several Hurt in Wreck.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—A passenger train from Ansonia to this city, on the Berkshire division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, crashed into a string of freight cars just outside of the city limits to-day. Several persons were injured. Ambulances were sent to the scene and brought the injured to this city.

 Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Night football practice was instituted for the first time this year at Cornell to-day when the varsity squad was called to the university armory and for an hour ran through signal drills and learned a couple of new plays. The decision of Coach Sharpe to give the team a new play for the Penn State game is the first encouraging sign that has come from them in several weeks.
 Another reason for holding night practice was forcibly shown to-day when a majority of the squad did not report for the blackboard talk until 5 o'clock. The surprising schedule of players are so heavy that the coaches have decided not to attempt any outdoor practice at all on Mondays and Fridays, limiting the actual playing to three days a week.
